CHARLES H. KELLEY KILLED

Terrible Event of the Week in Which All Principals Are Local People

An awful tragedy takes place in the midst of one of our finest communities, and the victim is a one hundred per cent fine citizen.
Vulcan and the vicinity mourns a great loss and grieves that the crime is committed by residents. Interest in the affair is intense.

The Advocate shares in the grief and the regret which naturally comes to a community like ours from the circumstances which are the subject of this article. Our columns are usually given to the report of things that are a pleasure, and a profit, to our people, and the fact that we do not consider the province of a small home weekly to be the medium for sensational publicity and repeated harrowing details, the report of this sad and unfortunate affair will be confined to a brief and plain statement of the event, framed from the evidence adduced at the inquest on Saturday night and the preliminary hearing on Tuesday afternoon.

Local police officials received word here on Friday night that Charles H.
Kelley, whose home is about nine miles from Vulcan, had been shot dead at the door of his auto garage on the farm. Police in every direction were informed, and it was only a matter of minutes when there was a remarkable and commendable demonstration of the activity of the force. Immediate investigation and later developments, which included the arrest of Otis Dorch and Othello Dorch and the statements made by law officers, and confirmed by the evidence of witnesses at the inquest and preliminary hearing, give us particulars for the story of the affair.

On the afternoon of Friday last the brothers purchased shotgun shells at a local hardware store, and also arranged for the use of an auto. In the evening they drove to the home of their father and from there borrowed a gun on the statement that they were going duck shooting next day. They proceeded to the Kelley farm, and on the way called at another place for water for the car. On arriving at the place of the tragedy, Othello, the younger of the two, was left in charge of the car on the road some distance from the house. Otis took the gun, and telling the brother that he was going to get some more shells that Kelley had, went up to the house.
Mr. Kelley was attracted by a noise made,
and later went down into the yard to the garage in a request for some gas for a car from someone that evidently he had not seen or recognized. Otis had taken a position of hiding in the garage, and when Mr. Kelley approached, discharged the gun, the charge striking Kelley in the face, part of which was carried away, and the result was instant death. Otis then returned to the car and told his brother of the shooting. Together they returned to the home of their father, and calling in the night explained that they had obtained a job for next day and had abandoned the duck shooting trip. They then came on into Vulcan and visited the public places then open, played a game or two of pool, and were listeners to the conversations here and there in reference to the crime, news of which had reached town even before them.

It was not long before they were apprehended, and only a few hours from the time of the shooting they had made the statutory declarations before a local justice from which most of these details are taken.

And it was not very long before the accused were in confinement to await their preliminary hearing, which took place on Tuesday. In the meantime the coroner's inquest was held, and the evidence at this as well as at the hearing which followed, was proof of the correctness of the statements the prisoners had made. Magistrate Barker, of Lethbridge, presided at the court. Both boys were committed on the charge of murder, and their cases will be heard at the next competent court at Calgary.

NEW ICE RINK

Consider Proposal to Build Skating
Rink

W. E. Butchart, D. C. Jones, A. J. Flood,
Roy Walker, A. G. Spooner, Harry Nelson,
T. B. LeBow, E. King, G. W. Buck, L. Wright,
F. Simington, W. Jennison, J. Leverington,
D. Cunningham, A. Sinclair, C. Hall, Roy
Ferguson, Dr. Wark, Dr. Carson, O. A. Craig,
R. Robbie—men in our midst who met Tuesday last to consider the proposition of constructing a skating rink. Plans and schemes for the purpose were presented, and the idea received strong support, so much so that as far as at present possible a joint stock company was formed to promote the building and financing of the rink.
There is no diversity of opinion as to the value of a rink, and a committee will at once commence work on the sale of stock and the arrangement of other details. The whole scheme up to the present has been the work of Mayor Butchart, who is a genuine community man, and in this enterprise is readily receiving the generous support of the men of a genuine community.
This is just the start of the thing, and there is yet time for all to commence even in their effort to make a success of the venture. Everybody wants a rink and everybody has opportunity to help. It is a big undertaking, but the prospects are that it will go big.

It is a good thing to have a fire prevention week the care and cleanliness that will reduce fire loss. Every week should be a fire prevention week with the people of Canada.

CARD OF THANKS

J. R. Branson and family desire to tender sincere thanks for practical sympathy from friends in Mossleigh and Vulcan in connection with the illness and death of the wife and mother, and for the beautiful floral contributions.

The Alberta exhibit, which has been touring American State fairs, will be taken to exhibitions at Twin Buttes, Montana; Pendleton, Oregon, and Walla Walla, Washington. The exhibit has attracted much attention at the Montana and Utah State fairs, and should do much to acquaint Uncle Sam's people with the diversified resources of the best province north of the 49th.

CONVENTION CENTRE

Vulcan Becoming Meeting Place of
Many People

Vulcan is developing into what we might term a "little convention city." Just a week or so ago the blacksmiths along the line convened here to discuss the business of their association, bringing sturdy representatives from the neighboring towns, who go back to their homes to tell of their pleasure in a visit to Vulcan.

Next it will be an assembly of school teachers at what has been called a "one-day institute," for teachers, for the discussion of special problems relating to teachers and their work, and this will be held in the High River inspectorate, at Vulcan, on October 20th. Institutes will also be held at Nanton on the 23rd, and High River on the 27th. Papers on Seat Work, English Composition, History and Nature Study will be given by teachers in active work. Round table discussions will be conducted and where possible model lessons taught. Teachers may attend the Institute most convenient to reach and every teacher is urged to attend one of these institutes and be prepared to take part in the discussions.

The district conference of women's Institutes will be held at Vulcan on October 18. This will truly be quite a big thing. The district is composed of twelve or more institutes, all active and the members enthusiastic, and the assembly here on the date named will be of considerable proportions and import. There will be a program of interest, and among the officials in attendance will be Mrs. Beaubien, provincial president, and Mrs. Rogers, provincial secretary. The sessions, morning and afternoon, are open to the public, and the ladies are particularly invited to attend. Vulcan and Golden Rule branches will entertain the visitors.

These several assemblies are of value in many ways to Vulcan, and we take permission only to remind our citizens of the good we might do in keeping up the high standard of our hospitality which has been our pride, and so much a pleasure to our visitors, to whom a hearty invitation is extended. May they never say of us that we forgot.

ESSAY COMPETITION

Prizes offered for Fire Prevention
Essay

As part of the program of Fire Prevention Week, Mayor Butchart on Friday addressed the Public School pupils on the subject of fire prevention. An attentive class listened with interest to the discussion of an important subject, and evinced an interest in the announcement that the Town Council and the School Board have each provided prizes, four in all, for the best essay on "Best methods of fire prevention in the Town of Vulcan." The essays will be judged by Fire Chief Smart, of Calgary, or the Provincial Fire Commissioner.

CHARLES KELLEY

Esteemed Resident and Widely Known in the South

Death came suddenly to Charles H. Kelley, at his home north of Vulcan, on Friday, October 6, 1922, aged 44 years. The funeral took place on Monday, at High River, where he was a resident, and as highly esteemed as he has been in his last place of residence. He was what is termed an old-timer, coming to this country in 1901, since which time he has been a resident also at Spring Coulee and Raymond, and testimony comes from these places of his integrity and thrift, and of the regret of his demise. He has been in turn interested in mercantile, milling and farming enterprises, but principally the latter, and since 1917 has been in the Vulcan district, associated for a time in partnership with his brother, Jesse Kelley who is in the Brant district. Another brother, Bert Kelley, is in business at Spring Coulee. Deceased is survived by a wife and two children. The funeral was very largely attended, many being present from Vulcan and district and elsewhere, and The Advocate joins with them and many others in paying esteem to the memory of a man who had by plain honesty commanded the confidence of all who knew him.

It was big business that they had on preparations for the district conference. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. Flood, and tea was served by Mrs. House, Mrs. Flood and Mrs. Nelson. The house was very prettily decorated with a profusion of flowers. These flowers were grown in the garden adjoining the house, one of the pretty spots which escaped mention when The Advocate was on the subject of flowers this summer. The feature of the meeting was a paper on "Women in Public Life," prepared and read by Mrs. D. H. Galbraith.

VULCAN, ALBERTA

DANGERS TO BE AVOIDED

While some people in Canada are demanding that the gates be opened to the foreigners who are knocking for admission, newspapers in the United States are pointing to the penalties which that country is paying as a consequence of having left the gates too wide. A Chicago paper points out that all the men involved in some recently discovered plots for the wrecking of trains came from countries where oppression and tradition breed hatred of government and cheapen life. These people seem incapable of appreciating orderly government. They have little capacity and less desire for freedom as it is understood by those accustomed to constitutional government. There was a time when the idea prevailed in the United States and Canada that there was practically no limit to the capacity of the public schools for converting almost any kind of foreign material into good citizenship. The idea must be abandoned. Experience has shown that many of the people—certainly not all, but many—who come from foreign countries never become citizens in any proper sense of the word. They may learn to speak and write the English language because they find it useful to do, but they continue to be aliens in sentiment and in outlook.

RESENTS "WET" PUBLICITY

Hard-drinking Americans who figure in press dispatches from London and Paris, may harm only themselves and their country, but the "booze-chasers" that operate between Canada and the United States are giving a bad name to the Dominion, which rouses Canadian wrath. Canada is getting a vast amount of advertising in the press, on the stage and on the lecture platform in the United States, says the Montreal Star, in which that section of Canada is pictured "as the metropolis of liberty and liquor north of the Rio Grande." One would imagine that Canada had "mounted a force-pump to drive liquor into the virgin veins of the American nation," whereas, in truth, declares the Star, "our law is perfectly good, restrained and sober." If liquor is to be sold at all, it would be hard to have the sale more carefully regulated, according to this daily, which reminds us that in the Province of Quebec the Government will sell a single bottle of spirits to a single purchaser at any one time, but "naturally it does not require him to prove that he is a British subject before he can embark on this momentous mercantile operation."

WOMAN'S OWN BATTLE

The fight of emancipated women against the tyranny of fashion is becoming very interesting. A New York woman has written to the health commissioner of that city asking him to tackle the long skirt, which fashion is threatening to force on woman again. She regards the long skirt as a menace to health. That is why she is appealing to the health commissioner. Her action is quite logical; yet it is an evidence of weakness. It is doubtful if the health commissioner can render any assistance in the struggle, however much he might like to assist. It is clearly a case of where woman must fight her own battle and show herself worthy of the emancipation she has achieved or has had thrust upon her. She has undertaken to assert her rights in all things. It is up to her now to assert her right to wear the kind of clothes she finds most convenient and most conducive to health. Should she fail in this preliminary skirmish, how is she going to face the greater struggle with confidence?

One man who chewed tobacco for 82 years has quit because his wife chewed the rag about it.

PENNY POSTAGE

Now that the war is a thing of the past, we feel that we should again have the penny postage. The three-cent stamp was a war measure, and no one kicked at its adoption, but now that the post office department is paying its way, there is no further need of revenue in this direction. As a matter of fact the use of ordinary postage stamps on cheques, notes and other documents, have so swelled the post office revenue that there is supposed to be a surplus; and as there is no particular object in having a surplus, as it cannot be used to reduce the war debt, it can be dispensed with. Nor can citizens be compelled at the present time to use other than the ordinary stamp which is so handy for them. We hope the government will give us the old two-cent postage and relieve this burden at least on the average citizen of the community.

WINTER SPORTS

From several points in Alberta comes the news of the formation of curling clubs, and the erection of curling rinks. No winter sport fits into the life of western Canada, so far as participation is concerned, better than curling. Like golf it appeals to the young and old of both sexes. It is a friendly game, good exercise, and a sport that does much to promote good feeling; and it makes our western winters seasons of joy and pleasure to an ever-increasing number of votaries, and thus has a good influence on Western Canadian life.

NEWSPAPER COMMENT

Calgary Herald: If there ever was any question about the sincerity of the prairie governments in their efforts to enforce the liquor law, there cannot be any doubt now. The governments always tried to enforce the law, but possibly in the early stages of prohibition they underestimated the task. They find now that they are face to face with the most reckless band of bandits that law authorities ever had to meet in this country. These organized gangs of bootleggers will stop at neither murder nor any other serious crime. As at present organized they are a serious menace to the lives and security of the state and the people. This is the time when all good citizens should come to the support of the law authorities. It has come to be a battle between the law enforcing authorities of the state and the boldest band of law breakers that the country has known. If the state cannot cope with this bitter opposition, the future in these districts is very uncertain and confused. The authorities in the early days of prohibition, may have underestimated the enemy. They permitted the bootleggers to organize in strong, unruly, rebellious gangs. That makes law enforcement very difficult. But the time has come when every person, whether in sympathy with the law or not, must sympathize actively with the governments in their fight to meet this murderous lawlessness.

Calgary Albertan: Premier King announced that Sir Henry Thornton, new chief of the Canadian National railways, would receive $50,000. The premier receives a salary of $15,000 a year, with $4,000 seasonal indemnity as member of parliament. In other words, the manager of the national railways receives twice as much as the premier and $12,000 in addition. The announcement caused no surprise, and will not likely excite any criticism. Canada should have a manager of railways a man who can earn $50,000 and the field is limited. Canada cannot well afford to have as manager a man who cannot earn $50,000. The criticism may be offered that the position of premier is more arduous and more responsible than that of manager of railways, and that may be true. But we have not reached the position where there is anything like fairness in the adjustment of salaries. No person is seeking the premiership for the salary attached. We cannot expect the same altruism in connection with the position of manager of the national railways. That should not prevent us from paying the premier something like what the position should be rewarded, but it does. If the new manager of the C.N.R. can weld the roads that were wished onto the Canadian people into something like the service they should be to the Canadian people, and lighten the burden of the annual deficits, Canada will consider that he is surely not overpaid.

Lomond Press: There has been quite a consistent complaint from the creditor element to the effect that many people are not playing the game fair. A few flagrant cases of hasty removals on the QT would lead one to believe that the uneasiness is not entirely without foundation. Before making too rapid a censure on the people as a whole one must appreciate the fact that anyone will find it easy to be honest when crops are good and there is plenty of money in circulation. One would almost think that after the constant familiarity of the past few years the people would lose their fear of debt. But that monstrous specter still exhibits power sufficient to bring panic and exasperation to many thereby afflicted. If people conclude that to go is the best policy, he should at least be willing to allow the creditors to "pick the bones." There is no law to restrain a man from moving. His creditors are not to blame for his misfortune. Why be unfair in arranging a settlement of what is left?

Medicine Hat News: The ringing of the curfew bell in Lethbridge has been revived at the request of the Probation Officer. The bell will ring at nine p.m. from April to October and at eight o'clock from then until April. Certain parents may object to their children being brought home by the Probation Officer, if caught out on the streets after hours, but if parental control cannot bring the youngsters into the house when darkness falls, it is time for the municipality to exercise its authority. Speaking in the interest of the children themselves, The News would like to see the custom of ringing the curfew bell revived in Medicine Hat. Children should not be allowed to roam at will after dark and, for very obvious reasons, they are not allowed to do so in well-ordered households. The breaking of windows and robbing of gardens, of which latter an epidemic has broken out recently in the city is not done during the daylight hours and these depredations will increase and amplify unless promptly checked.

The Ontario Government wants to improve the hotels, particularly in the smaller localities, and a committee of the Legislature is investigating, says the Financial Post. Judging from the evidence that has appeared, hotel-keeping is one of the worst of businesses and the only way they can be maintained is with public aid. It is possible that the newspaper reporters have overlooked the evidence of the successful hotel-keepers. The trouble is that too many hotel-keepers are like too many business men—they are merely slot machines. The committee should not rest until they have taken the evidence of half a dozen or more of the successful inn-keepers here and abroad. Canadian travellers have always observed that successful inn-keeping was invariably associated with, first, scrupulous cleanliness in outer surroundings, in the public rooms and in the bedrooms and in the attendants; second, good, simple food, well cooked and well served; third, a very cordial attitude on the part of the entire hotel staff—towards the guests and a willingness to take infinite pains in serving and entertaining them. The millions Canada is now making out of foreign travellers can be increased many times with the aid of good hotels. Inspiring and training managers, not non-using hotels, is what gives results.

In the two-cent stamp to be affixed to cheques for revenue purposes there appears to be a very careless method employed in allowing the ordinary postage stamp to be used in place of a recognized revenue stamp, says the Lethbridge Herald. There are such stamps, it is true, and with their existence there is the anomaly that they cannot be used for postage purposes while the postage stamp can be used for affixing to cheques. It is a peculiar instance of red tape methods. What is sauce for the goose is not sauce for the gander in the official mind, so to speak. The point, however, which calls for attention, in the methods laid down as to the uses of the two-cent stamp, is that there cannot be an accurate measure of what the two-cent tax on cheques will mean in the net revenue gained therefrom. Again, it is clear that, as opposed to general revenue, the Post Office Department stands to gain, and thereby retains a fictitious revenue as against the legitimate one from stamps sold for purely postal purposes. The use of postage stamps as distinct from other stamps on cheques is a loose and lax system when it comes to determining the exact revenue derived from this source of taxation, which the public has a right to know. Nor in the methods employed is there a fair guide allowed for determining exactly how the revenue from the Post Office Department stands.

USE EVERY PRECAUTION

Fire prevention may be secured by care and cleanliness and it is for this purpose that fire prevention week has been established to secure at least one annual clean-up of grounds and premises and to educate the people in the value of constant watchfulness. Piles of truck in the neighborhood of buildings, and accumulations of unused articles in buildings are causes of fires which orderliness and tidiness can destroy, and such orderliness should be manifested every week in the year, not spasmodically.

Sense that can be converted into cents is the real article.

ROBERT STEAD

ROBERT STEAD'S GREATEST BOOK

You will never have to ask that question, "What is Canadian literature?" again when you have read Robert Stead's latest and, so far, his greatest novel, "Neighbours."

There are few Canadians who are not familiar with this author's former novels, "The Homesteaders," "The Cowpunchers," and "Dennison Grant." This new book runs true to the Stead tradition of a good story, real humour, pure love and a real idea—even some real mystery, and it has more of the real atmosphere of life in it, than any other which has come to us in a long while. It is true writing, and will add fresh laurels to the fame of this already well-beloved author. "Neighbours" relates how two families of young people, brother and sister, neighbours, in a little Ontario town; neighbours, fifteen years later on adjoining homesteads in the Saskatchewan country, find life and love. Their stories run smoothly until a young Englishman settles in the community and upsets all expectations, including the reader's. But the best part of "Neighbours" in my mind, and what makes it a great book, is the picture of the people who make up that far-scattered "Neighbourhood" of homesteaders, Jake is the old villain who finds "locations" for the gullible newcomer; the "Sneezits" are a gaunt big-eyed Polak family, who live in a cave that the precious live-stock may have builded shelter—and the widow, and the Scotch family—and the wedding! All of that is writing of the finest type, and places this Canadian book in high order among the best literature of today. "Neighbours," a happy novel of the Northwest, by Robert Stead, Hodder & Stoughton, Toronto, $1.75.

MRS. J. R. BRANSON

Passing of Esteemed Resident of the Vulcan District

Died, at Mossleigh, at 10:30 a.m., on Thursday, October 5th, 1922, Josephine Corolla, beloved wife of John R. Branson, aged 42 years.

Deceased was born at Siam, Iowa, August 3, 1880, and was married to John R. Branson, June 5, 1898, and to this union were born three children, the first having died, and the other two, Pauline Isabel and Gerald, survive. The departed united with the Methodist Episcopal church of Siam at the age of fifteen years. The family have been in Canada and in the Vulcan district for some years, and they have commanded the esteem of people of the community, the large funeral on Saturday and the many floral tributes being evidence of this. The daughter of the family is Mrs. Leo Spankie of Vulcan, and the young son resides with the father in the Mossleigh district.

The funeral service was held on Saturday, in the Union church at Vulcan, and was conducted by Rev. T. H. Lonsdale, Methodist minister at Carleton Place, assisted by Rev. Mr. Brunton of Vulcan. The hymns, "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Face to Face with Christ My Saviour," were the selection of members of the family, and the ninety-third Psalm was read by Mr. Brunton. Rev. Mr. Lonsdale addressed the assembled friends as follows:

"I just wish to speak for a few minutes from a few words found in the message read to you from the Master Himself. 'Let not your heart be troubled,' neither let it be afraid, Ye believe in God, believe also in me."

"Some years ago there was found in a certain valley of the Nile, a great manuscript. This manuscript was evidently written about the same time that Jesus lived and was a letter of confidence written by a Greek lady to a friend who had sustained a great grief. She wrote the letter somewhat like this: After saying that she was very sorry for her friend, she said 'still there is nothing anyone can do in the face of a bereavement like this and I will leave you to comfort yourself.' I would like you to contrast these words to the last words of Jesus to his friends: 'Let not your heart be troubled, Ye believe in God, believe also in me.' There is no book of consolation like this old Bible of ours, there is no book of comfort or condolence."

"I think it is said of J. M. Barrie's mother that she stated that the 14th chapter of John was the most outstanding chapter in the whole bible. On the other hand we have the great Barrie's followers who said that this passage was merely abstract dogmatism and dogmatic philosophy, and yet, I do say this morning to you people, that the very hope of humanity lies entirely with J. M. Barrie's mother's philosophy and her appreciation was offered to mankind by Jesus our Lord."

"When the master spoke these words it was on the eve of His departure. He had gone about Palestine with His disciples for about three years. He had won their sympathy and their appreciation and had gathered them in the upper room (you might say) and a shadow came across the sunset of his life, the shadow of his departure and that he was going to leave his friends. On this night He told them, 'But I will not leave you comfortless, I will send the Holy Spirit to comfort you. Moreover, let not your heart be troubled' and these disciples of the Master had to such an extent trusted him that it was hard to believe. They had seen him raise the dead, heal the sick, cure the blind. Everything had been majestic and glorious, and now the Master was to be taken away from them. Now their faith decreased and at that time when their faith seems to have gone, at least when the Master had said these words, 'Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in me', etc. Are there not times in your life, in my life, when we have our faith tried? Do there not arise occasions in your life such as that which presents itself at this time, when your faith in God is assailed, when you sometimes wonder if there is justice and goodness in the universe. When there is sorrow that we have to pass through, do not we sometimes wonder if God is good. It was on such an occasion, when the disciples' faith had fallen away that he said, 'Let not your heart be troubled, Ye believe in God, believe also in me.'"

Further than that, the disciples of the Master had witnessed great things. They had been living, you might say, in a fairy garden, because the Master had done wondrous works, and because the Master had made His life wondrous to all people, but now they were robbed of all of this. Sometimes a child is awakened after having been dreaming of fairies and calls for the fairies. This is because the realities have no room in his imagination after his dream of the unreal. With the disciples, everything had been done on a majestic scale, the Master had been triumphant, but now the whole thing had faded away. He was to be put in the hands of the High Priest and let away and the whole of their dreams were to soon melt away, and it was at this time that the Master's words were spoken, 'Let not your heart be troubled.'"

"One more thought, when these words were spoken, the Master, as I have said, was shortly to be taken away by the High Priest, and the disciples imagined that he was to be rowned "King", but the Master had warned them before that His kingdom was not of this earth, but a Heavenly Kingdom, and they stood upon the brink of the reality of death and they found that the crown which was to be offered Him was not a golden crown, but one of thorns; they found that the way he was to tread was not a splendid golden path, but a hard road; but even then, the Master looks out upon His life which is to be and says: "There is nothing to fear, there is nothing to worry about, let not your heart be troubled."

"Now, men and women, is there anything that we can do other than that, particularly upon these occasions of life when we have to face the Great Divide? Is there any other faith that we can put our trust in; is here any other person that we can put our trust in?"

"We have the splendid example of the Master, Himself, sent for us at the time of His life when He was at the crisis and more than that, when He put His faith to the test, because I believe if any person ever put his faith to the test, it was the Master and our Lord; and He proved that the message which he gave was a message of deliverance and even died for us. These occasions in life do test our faith."

"There are times in all our experience when we pass through, or when we have to pass through the crisis, either in our own families, or in the families of those nearly related to us, or who are our friends, and it is not that we wish to be sentimental, but that we wish to face squarely the issues of life. The time will come when each will have to pass through the valley of the shadow. It will be at the time when we pass through the valley of the shadow that we wish for the consolation and the strength of other people, and the strength of comfort of the Almighty God. Have we got our trust and faith in God in such a measure that we can let our faith go out to Him who is given to strengthen and console."

"The friends of the deceased sister are here mourning the loss of one who was great in their lives, one who was revered, honored and loved, and I am sure that so far as this congregation is concerned, their consolation and their sympathy go out and we bear them up before the Throne of Almighty God, that He, Himself, might let His sympathy, might let His consolation, come into their hearts in this their hour of bereavement."

MARKS

German commerce and industry have, during the past few years, lived largely on the losses in marks incurred by foreigners, which became profits to Germany. This is a verbatim quotation, direct from Germany, as printed in the Allgemeine Zeitung.

It looks as if the "prosperity boom" in Germany has been largely the spending of money paid by speculators in marks.

During the terrible forest fires near Hellebury one hundred girls between the ages of four and sixteen years, attending the convent under charge of the Sisters of Assumption, jumped into the lake near the convent and every pupil passed through the ordeal safely. The convent and other buildings were destroyed.

KILLS THE HOPPERS

Professor E. D. Strickland, government entomologist has prepared a circular containing valuable advice to farmers in the area in which grasshoppers gave trouble this year. Some of this advice is pertinent to the fall season. Mr. Strickland says: "The destructive grasshoppers lay their eggs during August and September either in sod (roadside grasshopper) or in stubble and deserted land (lesser migratory and two-striped grasshopper), and no eggs are laid in land that has been summer-fallowed."

Where it is practicable from a cultural point of view all stubble land that is to be seeded next year should be deeply ploughed this fall as soon as the crop has been removed. The ploughing will bury any eggs that have been laid so deeply that they will not hatch in the spring, and it will prevent any further egg-laying in the field so ploughed."

Early fall disking is less effective than ploughing though it will lessen subsequent egg laying, and all eggs that are brought to the surface will be destroyed by the sun."

When fall ploughing is not advisable or practicable, stubble land should be ploughed to a depth of not less than eight inches before seeding in the spring. Care must be taken to see that the furrows are well turned over and the plough should be followed with a packer. When this work is well done very few hoppers will reach the surface."

Spring disking unless followed by ploughing is of little value, and it may do more harm than good, for it merely buries the eggs to different depths in loose earth, with the result that the hatching period is greatly prolonged, and fields that have been so treated require frequent poisoning in order to catch the constantly hatching grasshoppers as soon as they appear, and before they have done much damage to the crop."

In the more sandy districts which are infested with the lesser migratory and two-striped grasshoppers, the problem of control is more difficult, since these species lay their eggs promiscuously in stubble land and in deserted fields, and do not gather into breeding areas. No crops should be sown on stubble land in such districts unless it has been deeply ploughed, and any rye that is stubbled in this fall will be seriously infested."

Deserted lands and fields that are to be summer-fallowed next year constitute a serious menace to all crops in the district, and the best method of handling them requires careful consideration."

Whenever possible summer-fallowing should be started early in the season, while the ground is still moist. The fields should be ploughed from the edges towards the centre, or in strips so that the grasshoppers that have hatched will be herded together. There must be poisoning before the ploughing is completed."

The world's production in wheat for 1922 is estimated at 2,972,502,000 bushels, which is 70,000,000 bushels less than 1921, and 215,000,000 bushels more than the average crop from 1916 to 1920. Perhaps here is one reason for poor wheat prices. In the United States and Canada there is an increase of 30,000,000 bushels over 1921."

RED CROSS NEWS

Mr. John Rushfeldt left on Monday for Dakota where he has sons living and farming interests.

Miss Leah Woodman spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Woodman.

Threshing is almost completed here, only a few fields remain. Several good crops are reported. We will find out later if there is anything "worth writing home about."

There was a small meeting of the Women's Institute last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. Palmer. But the chicken supper served by Mrs. Palmer more than compensated for the lack of numbers. A special meeting has been called for the 11th at the home of Mrs. W. G. Peterson to consider important business.

Our community was horrified on Saturday morning to hear of the untimely death of our friend and neighbor, Charlie Kelley by the hand of a cowardly assassin. No man in the district was so deeply respected and beloved, and we sorrow with Mrs. Kelley and children, and other relatives in their irreparable loss. Among those from a distance who came to attend the funeral which was held on Monday in High River, were: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kelley, Brant; Mr. and Mrs. Burt Kelley, Mrs. Clara Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Thompson, Spring Coulee, Mr. Ralph Thompson, Calgary and Mr. and Mrs. T. F. McCarthy, Elkton, B. C. The church was filled with friends from Red Cross, Brant and High River. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

BRANT NEWS

Miss Sibine Olsen spent Sunday with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Don McLaren spent the week-end in Calgary.

The giddy girl makes a merry companion but a sorry wife.

Mrs. Doug. Holmes spent the week-end with relatives in Calgary.

Mrs. Frank Heckle called on Mrs. L. J. St. Clair Friday evening.

Mr. Lloyd Journy was a Sunday guest at the home of Neal McElman.

Mrs. John Eversman was a Calgary visitor Thursday and Friday of last week.

Carl Christofferson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Christofferson was operated on one day last week for appendicitis. Monday, October 9, threshing was once again in full swing. Machines can be heard from all directions of Brant.

A number of the Brant ladies were invited out to help grandma Bateman celebrate her sixty-fourth birthday anniversary on Saturday, October 7.

Mrs. Ben Holden has gone to Calgary to keep house for her daughters going to school. Miss Agnes Holden who was their housekeeper has accepted a position in a law office.

Mrs. Jim Sharon from Kirkcaldy came up Friday last to visit at the Mitten and Bateman homes. Mr. Sharon came up Saturday to spend Sunday among friends. He is station agent at Kirkcaldy.

Mrs. Downing of Cayley, formerly of Brant, and Miss Blaine of Hutchinson, Kansas, U.S.A. called on the Misses Mabel and Louise St. Clair Friday afternoon. Mrs. Downing and Miss Blaine left Saturday morning for Vancouver to spend the winter.

Quite a large congregation was out to services at the community church Sunday evening. Rev. Mr. Fawcett preached. Sunday school also seems to be improving. We note collection for last Sunday was two dollars. We trust the good work will be kept up.

Once again Brant and district have been plunged in deep mourning by the cruel murder of Chas. Kelly who was known by all who knew him to be a kind, good and honest neighbour. The family have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

Count George, formerly of Copenhagen, Denmark, but at present making his home in Calgary, motored to Brant to visit his friend Ove Hinding who is employed at the Home Grain elevator. Ove accompanied the Count to Calgary Saturday evening, to spend Sunday there.

Charlie Hon of the City Cafe, Brant, whom we referred to in a recent issue in connection with audaciously selling beer and gin in his restaurant after the holding of a stampede, appeared before Justice of the Peace, Charles Short on Thursday on a charge of having liquor for sale contrary to the Liquor Act, and asked for a remand of eight days, which was granted on his giving bail amounting to $1000. Lem Fey and Tom Kee of High River went security in $500 each.

TRY YOUR HAND

Scores of school children in every school district of the Dominion are competing these days in the national school essay competition on Forestry and Tree Planting, inaugurated recently by the Canadian Forestry Association.

Questions as to the forest resources of Canada, the damage done by forest fires, what trees to choose for planting and how to plant them are being asked by a multitude of young people and the resultant information is being applied to the essay competition. Three substantial cash prizes are being given in each province and the effect of the national effort to stimulate juvenile interest in the forest resources of the country and the multiple benefits of tree planting has secured the hearty endorsement of all the departments of education which are giving every co-operation.

MARQUIS SCHOOL FAIR

The Fourth Annual School Fair of the Municipality of Marquis was held at Milo Hall on Friday, September 29. A date long looked forward to by the pupils of the eleven competing schools.

The Fair this year commenced favorably with previous ones and was a great success, the exhibits were not quite so numerous as in 1921, being somewhere around 900, but what was lacking in numbers was certainly made up in quality, quoting the opinion of the judges, "it was the best exhibit of any school fair they had encountered in their circuit this year."

Most of the exhibits were in place the night before, although a few came bright and early the day of the fair. Around 9 o'clock the children, teachers and parents from the surrounding school districts began to assemble and by 10:30 the time the sport started there was quite a large crowd.

As soon as the judges arrived the hall was closed and while they were at work with their clerks going over the various exhibits the children tried their skill at various athletics.

Both boys and girls entering into the contests with evident zest to uphold the honour of their respective schools.

At noon everybody adjourned for lunch either of the picnic variety in group around the grounds or else patronized the cooking of the Ladies' Aid in the basement of the hall, while the Boys' Club took care of the ice cream and pop customers.

After lunch sports were resumed until 3 o'clock when the contests in oratory, singing and yells were held in the hall. Not all the schools competed in the oratory but the majority in the choruses and school yells. The yells would make an Apache Indian turn green with envy and show at least the lung of most of the children are O.K.

The display of exhibit in the hall included grains, vegetables, gopher tails, weeds, plants, insects, cooking, canning, condy, drawing, painting and fancy work, besides all kinds of school work. Models of gates, chicken coops bird houses, milking stools, basket and raffia work.

At an interval in the programme two of the judges explained the reasons for the various awards, emphasizing the educational value of the work. A point dwelt on particularly was the raising of the standard of handwriting throughout the rural schools.

A detailed list of the prize winners will be published as soon as possible.

Berrywater School, Miss Gilhooly, teacher, won the silver shield for the grand aggregate with a majority of 400 points. Pioneer being next on the list. This being the third time Berrywater School has won the shield in succession, it becomes the sole property of the school to keep as a record of the achievement.

The judges and their clerks did their work expeditiously and well and have the thanks of the executive.

The sports were well handled by a committee of three: L. A. Douglas, Gus Junk and Mr. Austin.

The unqualified success of the fair was due to the joint secretaries, Mr. and Mrs. Beckner of Queenstown who not only did fine work on the day but have throughout looked after all the details in a most satisfactory manner.

P. J. Haslam, president, acted as chairman for the day.

LIQUOR NOT THE ATTRACTION

In calling attention to the large number of American tourists entering Canada by motor car—over 617,000 cars crossed the border in the last calendar year, compared with only 93,000 in the previous year—the Wall Street Journal refers to "invigorating refreshments" as the magnet drawing visitors to this country.

The Wall Street Journal, which leaves the impression that American tourists coming to Canada are all "boozers" might be surprised to know that of the 617,000 motors crossing the border over 537,000 registered in Ontario which has prohibition, as compared with about 43,000 in the Province of Quebec and about 26,000 in British Columbia, the wet provinces.

American tourists come to Canada because of this country's attractive natural resorts, which are being made more readily accessible as the result of the building of better roads. Good roads are proving a good investment for all the provinces. The figures fail to give any indication that it is a beckoning Bacchus enticing tourists over the border or that our visitors come up with the sole idea of indulging in the cup that cheers.

Rather than desert the eggs on which she was sitting, a hen was recently burned to death in a poultry house fire.

The suggestion is made that Mr. Maharg contest the Moose Jaw riding from which Johnston, the Progressive member has been unseated. The change would not be to the advantage of the country. If on appeal, Johnston finally has to relinquish the seat, parliament will lose one of the ablest members sent to Ottawa from Western Canada.

The movement of grain through all the eastern channels is greatly restricted with the result that Canada is losing hundreds of thousands of dollars weekly through inadequate terminal and handling facilities. One solution of that situation is improvement of the Vancouver route to make possible the shipment of all the grain that can go that way.

List of the Successful Students in the Vulcan District Annual Fair

"School fairs are distinct community assets. In the plan of child welfare, in its literal interpretation, there can be no better method pursued. Elders in giving their attention and energies to school fairs are doing much for the benefit of the young to whom we all owe a responsibility."

The above is an editorial estimate of the school fair by a leading Alberta daily paper, and if measured by the success attained by the Vulcan fair, the promoters truly have fine reward in the knowledge of the fact that they have contributed in large degree in making true the statement of this paper, and the sentiment expressed has general and generous public support. The Advocate is pleased to again have opportunity to refer to such a successful event as the Vulcan School Fair, and as an introduction to the list of prize winners to repeat the credit given to officials, parents and pupils and others, and in this connection to acknowledge fine assistance rendered by the judges, Principal Hooper of the Claresholm Agricultural College and three others on the college staff, School Inspector Liggett, and Mr. John Massey of High River. Following is a partial list in detail of the prize winners, the name of the pupil and the name of the school being given in each case:

THE FOREST FIRE

We have been accustomed all our lives to hearing Canada spoken of as one of the most richly endowed forest countries of the world, says the Calgary Herald. It is a shock to our pride to discover that although we have a large forest area, the actual amount of merchantable timber on these lands is comparatively small, in fact much less than the United States possesses. Of our 1,900,000 square miles of forest land, considerably more than 1,000,000 square miles have been destroyed by forest fires during the last 75 years. It doesn't take much mathematical ability to enable one to predict how long our wonderful heritage will last us if we allow these ravages to continue.

Those who have made a study of forest conditions know that after a fire in a mature timber, nature usually provides a fresh crop of young trees to cover the denuded hill sides. This young material, if protected from further devastation, would ultimately provide what might be called a deferred payment of forest revenue. Unfortunately on many areas there have been not only one but repeated fires. The first fire may not destroy all the seed trees, but the second usually finishes the job and kills all the young growth. When both seed trees and young growth are destroyed the area becomes a waste which can only be made productive by forest planting. In many cases the soil has become so impoverished that nothing but weeds will grow. Careful investigations have been made in Alberta by forest officers to determine the cost of forest re-planting by planting. Under the most favorable conditions the cost of planting could not be brought lower than $11.00 per acre and that would not include the cost of raising the planting material. It takes 75 years to produce a stick of pulp wood and almost twice that time to produce a saw log. Is it not worth while to protect what we have rather than invest $11.00 per acre for new growth and wait 150 years for a return?

Marie Lloyd, the widely known music hall artist, died in London on October 7. She visited Alberta in 1913.

UNJUST DISCRIMINATION
Lady of the House—"The milk you left this morning was sour, Mr. Jones."

Aggrieved Dairyman—"There you are, Mum! If there's any complaint the poor milkman soon hears of it; but you never tell 'im when the milk ain't sour, do yer?"

THE MAIN BEARING
"Are you sure you have shown me all the principal parts of this car?" asked the fair prospective purchaser.

"Yes, madam, all the main ones," replied the dealer.

"Well, then, where is the depreciation?" Tom told me that was one of the biggest things about a car."

Ex-kaiser plans to marry Nov. 5. Wonder if he will sign another armistice on November 11.
